Access your contacts anywhere, anytime.

Successful organizations are flexible, mobile and have information at their fingertips.

The Advanced Contacts management system is based on a simple principle. The Internet was developed as a tool for information sharing. So why, ten years later, do we still have phone numbers written in the margins of notebooks and post-it notes stuck to our computer screens?

With Advanced Contacts you are empowered to share vital contact information within your company via a password-protected Intranet site. Not only does this mean you can find contact information anytime, anywhere, regardless of platform or software, but it also means your data is more likely to be accurate as it can be instantly updated by whoever on your team has access to edit the entries.

An important part of this database system is that it leverages other Advanced Web™ Solutions, such as Advanced News™, empowering you to deliver direct email messages to contacts based on their category and/or industry setting.

Advanced Web Solutions are implemented based on your content and customer relations management needs, so you are the master of your data and you always stay in touch.
